The International Council of Associations for Science Education (ICASE) was established in 1973 to extend and improve science education for children and young people throughout the world. Today, ICASE is a vast network of science teacher associations, institutions, foundations and companies, working together to promote science and technology education around the world. ICASE facilitates communication and cooperation at national, regional, and international levels.

Throughout the world, people and societies in which they live are profoundly influenced by science and technology. The improvement of quality of life and the achievement of sustainable development places a high demand for scientific and technological literacy on all citizens. ICASE has worked with member organizations in over 75 countries to support science educators in their important role of developing such literacy.

We are looking forward to seeing educators, teachers, researchers, and policy makers from around the world at the WorldSTE 2016, in Antalya.

Kind regards,

ICASE Executive Committee & WorldSTE 2016 Organizing Committee
